

DODGYHEARTBEAT.ORG

BREAKING CHAINS OF POVERTY

For any ministry to be successful it needs to focus on the purpose of ministry, to serve others.

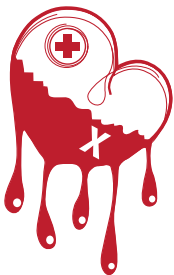

If one would read Matthew 25 one would see the intensity Jesus was speaking with, explaining what is expected of all people. He wants all people to live life in abundance and He has given all humans the opportunity to take part in it, to be His hand and feet. Every person is able to help another person in some or other way. Some people are blessed with more talents than others, but at the same time a greater responsibility lies on their shoulders.

What Jesus is asking of us is to produce a harvest with what we have. What use is it to give someone a meal today and tomorrow the person starves again? It could bring a person joy and perhaps even hope, but unfortunately it could lead to false hope. Would it not be better to provide someone with a means of producing his or her own food and income? This is what the fund is all about.

Some people are more hands-on than others, and some people prefer to fund those that are more hands on. The deck of cards was thought of as an idea to get friends and family to sit with each other and play a bit more, getting away from the stress you might be experiencing at the moment and at the same time you will be changing a person's life with a contribution from the purchases going towards the fund.

A question that might often arise is – why establish another fund when there are so many available? The answer is simple, if there are still people starving, it must mean that there are still not enough contributions made to break these poverty-empowered chains, strangling humanity.

At the moment the direction the fund is taking leads to the establishment of vegetable gardens and installation of water pumps where they are most needed, but wherever God leads I pray He will give us strength and obedience to follow.

The above-mentioned fund is an initiative by Dodgy Heart Beat Ministries CC